Embroidered echoes of Gajanand

“Gajanand” literally translates to “elephant faced” (gaja – elephant, anand – face). According to Hindu mythology, Lord Ganesha received his elephant head after an encounter with Lord Shiva. Despite the unusual appearance, Ganesha is remembered for his immense gyan and shakti. Our artisans have captured the essence of the shloka in this frame of art to grace your home, making it the perfect wall hanging. We specialize in gifting of exquisite wall art frames, crafted with the finest materials like

24 Karat Gold Plated Zari and sparkling Swarovski Crystals woven into Pure Banarasi Silk Fabric.

These frames become cherished heirlooms, symbolizing the essence of tradition and artistry for generations to come.

गणेश

वक्रतुण्ड महाकाय सूर्यकोटि समप्रभः।
निर्विघ्नं कुरु मे देव सर्वकार्येषु सर्वदा॥

English translation:

This shloka, an ode to Lord Ganesha, translates to: O Lord Ganesha, whose trunk is curved, whose body is massive, and whose radiance is like that of a million suns, please remove all obstacles from my life at all times.

Hindi translation:

हे गणेश जी, आप जिसके घुमावदार सूंड और विशाल शरीर हैं, और आपका प्रकाश करोड़ों सूर्यों के समान है, कृपा करके मेरे सभी कार्यों में बाधाओं को दूर करें।
